

Apply for Sliding Fee: Tell us about your income

To apply for a sliding fee discount, you need to tell us about your household income. For each type of income in your household, please provide at least one document that shows that income. Below is a list of documents we accept.

Income Type	Acceptable Documentation
Income from your job, business or self-employment	Four (4) weeks of pay stubs; or letter from your employer; or tax forms from last year (such as W-2)
Income from your spouse or partner's job	Four (4) weeks of pay stubs; or letter from your spouse or partner's employer; or tax forms from last year (such as W-2)
Income from your dependent's job	Four (4) weeks of pay stubs; or letter from your dependent's employer; or tax forms from last year (such as W-2)
Unemployment	Unemployment award letter
Social security	Social security award letter
Social Security Disability Income (SSDI)	SSDI award letter
Retirement or pension income	You must include most IRA and 401k withdrawals. You do not need to include qualified distributions from Roth account.
Alimony	Copy of most recent alimony check; or receipt of cash alimony; or tax forms from last year (such as W-2)
Child support	Copy of checks or bank statements
Capital gains	Tax forms from last year (such as W-2)
Investment income	Interest and dividend statements
Rental and royalty income	Tax forms from last year (such as W-2)
Supplemental Security Income (SSI)	SSI award letter
Assistance from outside the household or miscellaneous sources	A letter of support from the individual providing assistance including amount and frequency
Worker's compensation	Copy of worker's compensation letter
Public assistance	Copy of your most recent public assistance letter
Veteran's payments	Copy of VA award letter
Survivor benefits	Copy of survivors benefit award letter

Please note: if you do not have any of the documents listed, let our staff know and we will help.